With M6 remote video monitoring of your site, we implement a state-of-the-art intelligent video system which uses video analytics to continuously monitor behaviors or events on your site that may require deterrence or response by law enforcement personnel.

When an alarm is triggered, M6's central station is alerted in real-time and the necessary response is initiated. The system has the sophistication to ignore motions like shadows, animals, weather events, and more. Construction site personnel can receive alerts on their cell phone within seconds of an intruder being on the site. Enjoy the benefits of viewing live and recorded video during the construction of the project for security or operational purposes without even going to site.

Construction sites are frequently victimized by the theft of machinery and equipment, appliances and furnishings, tools and material supplies, and vandalism. This loss can lead to increasing insurance costs.

“ Video verification technology has reduced false alarm dispatches by over 90%. Police departments assign a higher response priority to crimes in progress than to notification of audible alarm from a conventional system. Protection and observation can be provided in areas power isn't present or installation is difficult ”
